Making copy of digital communications in East Europe, I would like to pay a special attention to the Bulgarian state institutions' sites and their specific models of communication, which occur to be partially representative for the former red region, understood only like a conglomeration of the ex Soviet Union and its satellites in the near area. Of course, Bulgaria has more prolonged experience in the role to be a share in other's territories and interests, namely Byzantion (2 centuries), Osman Empire (5 centuries), Soviet Union (only 45 years and only as ideological influenced partner), and from 2004 – as an equal in rights European Union' member. This membership is recognizing by the side of its on the average statistical citizens mainly like picking negatives, instead of positives. The public institutions in Bulgaria, appearing hybrid of their heavy historical heritage and the new European directions, turn out in a situation of unused staff potential leastwise in the IT sphere, because of the socialistic times of second nets creating manner left over, and their malformed deterioration in the post-totalitarian variant of corruptive schemes as constructive structure of national government. There is a lack of electronic government, because there isn't civic society, but the state administration escapes the convenience of the e-communications as realizes practices under the shape of its own worldly survival and enrichment, collected with the mediation of commissions on allegedly adoption of European funds, over allegedly realization of public orders, simultaneously with the retail principle with the small unregulated receipts for civic favors. Here the situative analysis requires the mentioning of life workshops inside the administration and the widening of the permanently appointed positions or their rotation between relatives and other doubted people. While the going is good. As long during the socialism, to obtain bananas bunch from the greengrocer one must to had informers for deliveries, stayed on tiring wait at the huge rears and having money, then the one had a need to have favors for change, too. Today the second net with the output indulgence is already faint in favor of the bigger and non regulated sums for personal absorption. Suddenly the digital communications from social significance in Bulgaria render under the pressure of occurrences, similar to the distributing quota based on antisexist' principle with the compulsory participation of such and such percent female presence. I.e., the sites exist, don't work the experts on the pay-roll never answer in their communicational impotency : experimentally I tried communication via the sites of agency for national security, metropolitan municipality, and elite school. In Bulgaria reply to telephonic calls from the telephone exchange of the head offices, on operator level only, this is topical. Something more – experimentally I put through to their personal mobile devices absolutely easy with acting Prime Minister and political leaders, and the same returned me a calls, in honor of the interpersonal vocal communication and viva voce checking of what is actual for their finances, from the type only me-you-and who taps the line, pretending that we neglect him, but over the control of the hints communication and its hard application. But the communicational impotency of the state institutions leads to taedium vitae all the population, left outside the political distributor of the European funds and inner – gathered claims. Look at the wave with the self – ignition phenomenon of the desperate of the system people, whose relevant part appear its digital communication. And everything is consequence solely of the high tolerance of the society towards the every form of deviation. Because in Bulgaria the corrupt practices are considered as a prestigious positive came from definite social position; for ideal piece of draft, in which you don't take participation, but the fight against the corruption is only a fight to enter the corruptive scheme as insider, ousting somebody else. Therefore nobody has interest of the effective digital communications.
